The Peggy Spiegler Foundation funds research into the nature, causes, prevention, treatment, and cure of melanoma. Its public programs spotlight the latest in medicine and research in order to disseminate educational information about the prevention of melanoma and other skin cancers.

Peggy Spiegler

To know her was to love her, admire her, and respect her. Peggy Spiegler was a loving daughter, devoted mother, wonderful grandmother and a special wife. A talented, unselfish teacher, Peggy shared her enthusiasm for learning and generosity of spirit with hundreds of elementary school students and treasured colleagues. Her family and friends were also fortunate enough to be recipients of Peggy's un-abashed affection and sense of humor. Sadly, in July, 2008, Peggy lost a lengthy and courageous battle with melanoma. Her family and friends, long-acquainted with Peggy's kindness, strength, and intrinsic humanity continue to honor her memory and the special legacy she left to all of us. "It never hurts to be nice," Peggy would advise, and so to continue Peg's goodwill philosophy, we have organized "Talk While You Walk for Peggy Spiegler". Please "be nice." Help us raise money to stamp out melanoma so that others' lives will not be cut short before they are able to fulfill their dreams. Truly, Peggy touched the lives of many people, and in our hearts, we still feel her tender touch.
